

Starling qualities

THE first major European SX of the off-season was held at Zuidbroek in Holland at the start of the month where America's Justin Starling ran out as the big winner.

Spread over three days, the event attracted international competitors from 65cc riders all the way through to SX1 with the opening night catering for club, regional and national riders before the big guns were rolled out.

Dancing girls, live music and even a sidecarcross supercross demo from three-time world champion Etienne Bax with Nicolas Musset in the chair all added to the atmosphere before the serious business got under way with Starling (Castrol Power1 MotoBase Suzuki) taking the overall verdict in SX1 over the two nights with a 2-2 scorecard.

The SX2 class was dominated by Brian Hsu (HTS KTM) who won both his Main Events as Matt Bayliss (JBR Honda) posted the best finish by a British rider with seventh in the 250 class on the Sunday.

Brits Jack Brunell, Gradie Featherstone and Scooter Webster all contested the SX1 class but didn't manage to make it through to the Main Event on either night.

Justin Starling took the overall in the SX1 class
